NOTE FROM THE EDITOR

This 1954 Yearbook, the 22nd edition of The Warrior, is presented with the desire that it will bring back memories of your school experiences. The activities of the school have been arranged in the order in which they came during the year. It begins with the first day of school and follows through until graduation, so for this reason Sequence has been chosen for the theme.

The yearbook staff has tried in every way possible to make an interesting and desirable book. It has been my wish to give you a new and different yearbook, one that will enable you to recall the fond memories of high school; one you will enjoy owning.

The advertisement section has been cut out and in place of it sponsored pages have been used. The purpose of this change is to make it easier to recognize those who take an interest in our yearbook and to make more room for school affairs.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

In presenting this 22nd edition of The Warrior we the staff wish to acknowledge our deep appreciation to J. I. Yates. With his constant help and determination again this year we were able to publish this yearbook.

We feel that it is only fair that he be given special recognition for the time and efforts spent advising our yearbook.

PURPOSE

To make the Library more helpful and attractive to the student body.

Reddy Kilowatt sees a bright future for the members of the 1954 graduating class at Troutville High School. It is young people, like yourselves, who make all Virginians proud of their heritage.

Today Virginia needs spirited and determined youth to help make better communities; better government; and a better way of life for all. It is Reddy's hope that Troutville's graduates of today will become Virginia's Leader of Tomorrow.

SENIOR CLASS

Graduation night has ended. The lights have been turned off, the front door has slammed behind the last proud parents and laughing graduate. In the auditorium a few wilted flowers, a few scattered programs, the tassels of a senior cap are the only remains for the class of '54.

But wait! In the corner over there sits a lone figure. He gets up slowly and walks to the stage. He begins to speak as if talking to an unseen audience.

"I am the spirit of the class of '54. Of all of the boys and girls whom I was once a part, I alone am left. Soon I too must go to make way for the spirit of the next class. But first, I would pause and remember a bit.

"We share many memories, the class of '54 and I. Why, I remember back in the fall, '49 when there were fifty-nine little folks that bounced into the eighth grade. That was a busy year, getting used to this new kind of life. Seems to me Mrs. Maddex and Mrs. Sutphin were sponsors. That was the year, too, that the school had its first Student Council. Think of that! Some of my folks have been members of the Student Council ever since it began.

Then they were freshman. My! They felt grown up. Mrs. Drewry was sponsor that year. I remember one of the high spots of the year was when three of the girls were chosen cheerleaders. One of them even made the cast of the one-act contest play, "So Wonderful In White." Some of the boys began their football careers that year. We were really on our way.

Came the fall of 1950, and now the halfway mark had been reached. Sophomore-"wise fools." So much wisdom accumulated already that there seemed little left to learn! Yet, surprisingly enough there were a few crumbs of knowledge absorbed. The year rolled by rather serenely and before they knew it, they were Juniors.

Juniors! Time for the junior play. Often that fall the auditorium looked darker and more ghostly than it does now as voodoo drums sounded and "Drums of Death" was readied for production under Miss Stone's direction. With the proceeds obtained, and from bake sales and movies, they entertained the seniors with a gala dance. That night the auditorium was decorated like a music shop.

And tonight they ended their senior year-that is, twenty-six of them did. Mrs. Sifford was sponsor this year. They had all the high spots seniors could have-football games, basketball games, dances, a May Queen, senior trip, a senior play, their turn at being entertained at the Junior and Senior Prom. Now they're gone to be doctors, lawyers, accountants, engineers, farmers, secretaries, nurses, teachers, and housewives. And now I must be going, too.

The Spirit of '54 leaves the stage, puts one of the wilted flowers in his button hole, sticks one of the programs in his pocket. The front door bangs shut. The spirit of the class of '54 has gone abroad into the world.

FINIS

This has been our school life for the 1953-54 year. It has been filled with all phases of school life including parties to exams, with fun and work shared by all. Now school has ended and so this volume has come to The End.
